October 24, 2009 (FPRC) -- This thirteen rhyming-books series celebrates all of the major Holidays with the already well known christmas story the Forgotten ornament and highlights special worlds. Its 144 original characters are a cast of common and some exotic animals that live in harmony, have adventures, and learn within a protected and secure place—the sanctuary. Sarah, a young girl, has learned her love of nature and animals from her Grandmother Beverly, a zoologist. Sarah guides, observes, or reports on these diverse creatures in many of the books, while the remaining books deal with special environments in the 'world sanctuary.' All Thirteen of the books emphasize the preservation of nature, the uniqueness of all living creatures and important virtues, such as tenacity, responsibility, respect and compassion that the children and their parents who read this story to them can appreciate. A song (on CD) will accompany each book and a 'reading' of the book can be included.

Cathy Malatesta, President of Lawless Entertainment, said "We are so honored to be working with Erik on this beautiful collection and feel confident that it will be a huge success across all media the world over".
