

Canada's Leading Trade Show Exhibits Provider, Skyline Wins Metro Vancouver Consumer Choice Award

Skyline Exhibits, well known for its trade show displays and trade show booths expertise has received the Metro Vancouver 2011 Consumer Choice Award in the category of Display Designer and Builder.

October 5, 2011 (FPRC) -- VANCOUVER, BC, CANADA - Skyline BC, leading providers of trade show displays in British Columbia, has won the prestigious Metro Vancouver 2011 Consumer Choice Award in the category of Display Designer and Builder.

The Consumer Choice Award (CCA) is an impressive award as winners are not selected by judges but by consumers themselves. While Skyline has won many awards and accolades for its products, this is the first CCA award for the trade show booth experts.

“At Skyline we work really hard to ensure we are always providing the best quality exhibit products to help maximize a client's trade show exposure,” said Michael Thimmesch of Skyline Exhibits. “Exhibitors need an ally to help them thrive in the competitive trade show environment. We’re thrilled that Skyline BC has been recognized by their customers as providing an exceptional level of customer service to Vancouver trade show exhibitors.”

The CCA determines the best service providers in Metro Vancouver by conducting a unique statistical survey. The research is carried out by leading Canadian independent market research firm, Leger Marketing which ensures a meticulous assessment of unbiased opinions, expectations for the services purchased and perceptions about the product or service.

Skyline has been in operation for over 30 years, providing trade show booths and more. The company has grown to almost 100 design centers across North America and is represented in 40 countries. The company's range of products is extensive and includes everything from portable trade show booths to island displays; lightweight, easily customizable and highly portable inline displays to modular displays; popup displays to workstations. The trade show experts have received multiple awards for their products including the Buyers Choice Award and the Exhibitor Product Design Award for the Envoy® Exhibit System as well as the silver Event Design award for its Eurocopter exhibit for its design.

Skyline is constantly on the cutting edge of innovation with its product design and functionality - ensuring customers always have access to the best quality trade show products for all their exhibition needs. The company designs high quality exhibit products for some of the most recognizable names internationally.

"Receiving the Consumer Choice Award is equal to being awarded a 'seal of excellence' and we are proud that our Vancouver office has been identified as a leading service provider in this industry. We are going to ensure we validate our customers' belief that Skyline is the best trade show exhibit provider in Canada," said Thimmesch.
