

Stradalli 3K Carbon Frame Easily Copes with Power of Heavyweight Martial Arts Fighter

Mixed martial arts fighter Antonio "Bigfoot" Silva has bought a Stradalli full carbon bike. The 3K weave and high tensile strength easily withstands Antonio's power and is a testament to the bike's build and quality.

November 8, 2012 (FPRC) -- Pompano Beach, Florida - Stradalli Cycle, the high performance carbon bicycle manufacturer, is pleased to announce that mixed martial arts heavyweight fighter Antonio "Bigfoot" Silva has bought a Stradalli full carbon fiber mountain bike. At almost 6'5" and weighing in at 290 lbs, Antonio can't just ride any bike! But the 29 inch extra large mountain bike easily copes with this fighting powerhouse.

Antonio Silva is a Brazilian born mixed martial arts heavyweight fighter who is ranked in the world top 10. In his professional career Antonio has won 17 fights, 12 by knockout!

The 2013 Stradalli "29er" full carbon fiber mountain bike is designed for racing and tearing up the trails. It has a tapered head tube which significantly stiffens the control center. This lets the rider power their way out of ruts and improves all-round control. The frame is 100% 3K carbon fiber with internally routed cables and 29 inch wheels which offer increased traction and better stability.

"One of the major benefits of a carbon fiber frame is its strength to weigh ratio," said Thomas Steinbacher of Stradalli. "Frames built with the same strength using other materials would be much heavier. The fact that a Stradalli is suitable for Antonio's mass and power is a testament to our frame design."

Silva has big plans for his new bike. Not only will he using it for fun and leisure it will also make up an important part of his on-going cardio training.

Stradalli would like to wish Antonio continuing success as a mixed martial arts fighter and urges him to push his new bike to its limits!
