Objective IT Welcomes Joe Tompkins to Its Growing Software Development Team

The team at Objective IT is pleased to introduce Joe Tompkins as their new Junior Developer.

June 24, 2014 (FPRC) -- Objective IT, a software development company based in Chelmsford, Essex, has appointed Joe Tompkins as its new Junior Developer.
Fresh out of university, Joe joined the team in June 2014. Throughout the interview process the management at Objective IT felt that Joe was the perfect candidate for the new role due to his evident passion for developing software and his eagerness to bring fresh ideas to the table.

Whilst studying Computer Science at Essex University, Joe excelled in the software development side of his degree, achieving a first-class honours overall, and this is what prompted him to pursue a career in this field.

He has previous experience in C# and SQL, and is currently broadening his knowledge in .NET Telerik controls. His role within the team will include SQL development and SQL database development for a wide range of projects. During his first weeks at the company he has already been helping his seniors work towards creating a bespoke reporting tool for a client in the travel industry.

Joe is thankful to Objective IT for giving him such a great opportunity so soon after finishing his degree and is he is looking forward to becoming an integral part of the Essex bespoke software development team. He believes that the company will allow him to hone his software development skills and is confident that the role will open up new avenues in terms of his own development. "I'm pleased to be working for such a well-regarded local company," he adds. "I feel Objective IT is a great match for me, both on a personal and professional level, and am settling in here well."

Outside of work, Joe has a keen interest in sports and coaches a local Essex Youth football team. His passion for volunteering also saw him lending a hand behind the scene at the 2012 Paralympics.

Managing Director Cath Fox believes that Joe's appointment is an important step in terms of business growth. She is looking forward to expanding the team further in the coming months to cater to a higher demand for Objective IT's services.
