August 17, 2014 (FPRC) -- Las Vegas has been the home for Red Skelton Tribute artist Brian Hoffman since 2008. His afternoon show in Las Vegas has entertained ten's of thousands of tourists. Many of these people have suggested he take his show on the road.

Pigeon Forge has been a popular tourist destination for years and is located between Sevierville and Gatlinburg. Between the three towns people can participate in more than 75 family fun Smoky Mountain attractions including Dollywood, Ripley's Aquarium of the Smokies, Wonderworks, Dixie Stampede, souvenir shops and places to eat.

Family entertainment abounds theaters that showcase acrobats, comedians, cowboys, musical entertainment and magic. Family friendly comedy is what Red Skelton was all about. His 20 years of quality television brought joy and laughter to millions.

Now visitors to Pigeon Forge can enjoy the same great shows Las Vegas tourists have adored for over 5 years. Brian Hoffman's tribute to Red Skelton has been in the top 15 shows to see in Las Vegas according to TripAdvisor.com. His expert portrayal of Red Skelton has inspired people to proclaim "This guy could be mistaken for the real Red Skelton! By far one of the best shows in Vegas."

This fall, when you are planning your trip to the Smoky Mountains, to take in the spectacular sights as the autumn leaves are in full color, be sure to allow some extra time to catch Brian Hoffman's Remembering Red - A Tribute to Red Skelton performing in the Cryus Family Theater.
