

Phil Stanley Now Offering Fusion Wedding Photography and Videography Packages

The Essex wedding photography and videography team are now offering packages that combine photo stills, video and music in order to provide a professionally-edited presentation to brides and grooms looking to document their big day.

October 30, 2015 (FPRC) --

The husband and wife team at Phil Stanley Photography, based in Essex, have announced the launch of their comprehensive Fusion wedding photography and videography packages.

Capturing every detail of a clients' wedding-day story by combining still images with video and audio, Phil Stanley Photography is now able to draw upon their extensive skillsets and experience in the industry to create a flawless 'fusion' presentation that the happy couple will treasure for years to come.

Fusion wedding photography and videography packages are on offer from just £970 for a limited time only.

"We are very proud to be the only local company offering innovative Fusion packages such as these that allow the viewer to really immerse themselves in the wedding day experience," says founder Phil.

"We have adapted the role of the 'traditional' wedding photographer to ensure we approach the wedding from all possible perspectives to create a timeless photo film for our couples. By shooting video, adding audio, talk-overs and background music to the photo film, we can develop a cinematic piece that really brings the true spirit of the day to life.

Adopting reportage techniques, we work closely with our clients to ensure all of their bespoke needs are met and that they feel comfortable with the process. Once we've established trust and confidence in our ability and our services, we can then achieve the very best results.

"The new packages are already proving to be highly popular amongst our clients, so we are encouraging couples to get in touch now to reserve our team for events in 2016 and 2017," he continues.
