

Cottage Industries Takes a Look at Top Remodeling Trends for 2016

Shaker-style cabinets, home automation systems, more assertive back-splashes and other trends liven up rapidly evolving remodeling scene of 2016, Cottage Industries reports

Wayne, PA -- January 11, 2016 (FPRC) -- Cottage Industries , Inc., one of the Philadelphia area's leading home remodeling companies for over twenty-five years, published a brand new overview of the top home design trends for 2016. Covering everything from traditional improvements like upgraded kitchen cabinets to cutting-edge features like home automation systems, the new guide to the most popular remodeling projects for 2016 is available now at www.cottageindustriesinc.com . Visitors there will also find more information about the Cottage Industries approach to home remodeling and samples of the company's work, along with a wealth of other resources that can help readers understand how to bring out the potential in their own houses.

"There's only one true constant in the world of home remodeling, and it is that things are always evolving," Cottage Industries co-founder Adam Sherman said, "Our new guide to the top trends for 2016 shows this clearly, with plenty of fresh new developments bursting onto the scene. We think anyone who is interested in remodeling and home design is going to enjoy reading this new article, and we hope that visitors will help themselves to everything else we have to offer at our website."

With many Americans housing the bulk of their net worth in the ownership of their homes, taking care of and maximizing the value of these precious assets is virtually a national pastime. Strategic, properly planned home remodeling endeavors can boost the market price of homes by even more than the investments made into them, while also making daily life far more enjoyable for residents.

With the new year now underway, the just-published cottage industries guide shows off some of the most prominent and exciting home remodeling projects for 2016. With over twenty-five years in business serving customers throughout Philadelphia and the surrounding Main Line, the remodeling experts at Cottage Industries were well positioned to note and comment on these recent developments.

Those include a mix of former favorites now restored to popularity, novel ideas now entering the mainstream for the first time, and seemingly timeless options that have remained popular for years. In the first category, Cottage Industries remodeling specialists identify a surge in interest in Shaker-style cabinets, with the unmatched versatility and construction quality of the furnishings making them a safe addition to just about any home. On the technological front, Cottage Industries professionals point out an increasing trend toward the installation of cutting-edge home automation systems, a feature that was until recently seen as something of a frill by many.

The new guide is available now at the Cottage Industries website, where a wide range of other informative home remodeling resources can also be found. Those who visit website can also learn more about the whole range of Cottage Industries services and schedule free consultations regarding their remodeling goals and options.
