February 10, 2016 (FPRC) --

HolidayParkSpecials, an online holiday provider specialising in holiday parks across Europe, have revealed their best holiday parks for 2016 based solely on ratings and reviews from customers. Following a visit, guests are able to rate their experience at a holiday park based on a number of aspects, including general characteristics of the park, (location of) the accommodation and the hospitality of the staff. The results are then calculated and awarded per category, such as Most Luxury Holiday Park and Most Child Friendly Holiday Park. Not only does this make it easier for guests to find the perfect park, it also rewards the top performing parks for their hard work and excellence.

Best holiday park in Holland

For the third year in a row, Efteling Village Bosrijk has been named the best holiday park in the Netherlands. Efteling Village Bosrijk is situated right next to Efteling theme park, the most visited theme park in the Netherlands since 1952 with over 120 million visitors enjoying the unique Efteling experience. With a phenomenal rating of 8.8, Efteling Village Bosrijk has also claimed the title for the Most Atmospheric Holiday Park in Europe. Radiant reviews from holiday makers include comments such as: "luxury cottages with excellent service from staff" and "a truly magical experience."

Landal GreenParks win best park group

Another winner to take the prize for the third year running is the Dutch park group Landal GreenParks, who are part of the Wyndham Vacation Rentals Family of Brands. One of the most well-known brands in hospitality across Europe, Landal GreenParks have also won awards for two of their German holiday parks. The best holiday park in Belgium is Domaine Le Boulac, located in the nature-rich Ardennes, and the award for the best holiday park in Germany went to Lindner Ferienpark Nürburgring. The coveted award for Most Child-Friendly holiday park went to the Dutch Slagharen theme park and resort.
