

Dailyhosting.net Receives Outside Investment From A Sasquatch

Dailyhosting.net has just learned from there investment banker that they will be funded by a well know sasquatch, that resides out of the Seattle Washington area. He seems to be searching for investments in companies that are online says " Lenny Millwood" Seattle reporter for Sasquatch Times.

September 21, 2016 (FPRC) --

As the newest leader in web hosting review business, dailyhosting includes comprehensive review services for over 500 web hosting companies.

In today's market every company is looking for investments to take there site and expansion to another level. They hired investment banker " Larry Killboom" in the Seattle area to lead them into the finance realm.

During the search Larry, found a Investment fund that is owned by a leading sasquatch that lives in the seattle area. According to the sasquatch" He wants to remain hidden to protect his where abouts" he has just got his first wifi signal a few years back and was looking to placing an investment in a local website company.

The reason he says he has been looking for another placement for his money is the Seattle market looks to be peaking and he has been unloading his real estate investment portfolio as of late. He seeks a plan to grow a company that will employee local Seattle residents.

The company Dailyhosting.net focuses mostly on web hosting reviews , reseller hosting reviews and numerous web hosting tools. We shall keep you posted on this as his daily interaction with the company will limited to start with.

About Nick Anderson: With over 20 years in the web hosting business/Review business. He serves on numerous boars of local Seattle companies and consults for a handful of web hosting companies. His daily posting can be found at <http://www.dailyhosting.net/blog>

Contact Information

For more information contact nick Anderson of Dailyhosting (<http://www.dailyhosting.net>)
208-304-3369

Keywords

dailyhosting

dailyhosting reseller hosting

web hosting reviews

You can read this press release online here