

Thermalabs Organic Healthcare to Launch a New Batch of Products

Thermalabs organic healthcare is working on more products.

October 27, 2016 (FPRC) -- Thermalabs Organic Healthcare has said that it's working towards launching a new set of products. This comes barely months after the brand introduced its Jerusalem Balsam and Aragan Oil products. Organic Healthcare had also introduced its anti-nail Fungus formula, which was formulated from 100% bio-organic ingredients. According to Organic Healthcare brand manager, the new product will help boost health and will contain no preservatives or chemical additives.

Thermalabs is a leading cosmetics firm that's based in the United States. The company's head offices are in New York City, but it operates production factories in Israel and other locations. Thermalabs has earned a reputation as an innovative manufacturer of top-notch tanners and skincare products. The company has created some of the most popular tanners in the market, including the original self tanner, the Bonus Size self tanner, and the travel sized tanner. Thermalabs leverages unique ingredients such as Aloe Vera and Green Tea in its tanning products, which usually makes them much more effective compared to the competition's tanners.

Although Thermalabs influence is primarily resident in the self-tanning space, the company has been making efforts to diversify to other areas of the market. Thermalabs has so far established three distinct brands that it's using to reach out to various niches. Thermalabs Supremasea is a brand that's tasked with overseeing marketing of all skincare products that are based on Dead Sea mineral salts. Already, Supremasea has seen four products hit the market, and apparently the company's diversification efforts are paying off. Thermalabs Tent World, on the other hand, is a premium brand that's in charge of any tent related product. The third brand, Organic Healthcare, has everything to do with production and marketing of organic health products based on naturally occurring seeds, herbs, and plants extracted from the mountains of Galilee in Israel.

A team of skilled artisans working at a Galilee factory create Organic Healthcare products. The brand relies on 100% bio-organic ingredients to make products that boost health with no side effects. According to Thermalabs, Organic Healthcare is relying on over 1000 years of healthcare wisdom acquired from the Rambam, who was a preeminent Jewish scholar and physician. The brand's key aim is to accomplish some of the health, energy, and vigor that human ancestors enjoyed, by relying on some of the herbs and seeds the Rambam used.

While responding to an information request, Ms. Priscilla Rodgers said, "It's been a couple of weeks since we introduced our first three products – Jerusalem Balsam, Aragan Oil, and Anti-Nail Fungus. These products haven't been fully launched, but we have seen a very positive reception from our surveys on them. The good news even is that we have more coming. Thermalabs Organic Healthcare is just getting started. Our production department is in the final stages of manufacturing new formulas that will help boost your health, increase your energy and double your vigor. Stay tuned to Organic Healthcare for upcoming details."
