

Tent World's New Mars Beach Tent Now Available Online

One of Tent World's latest launches, the Mars Beach Tent, is now available to users.

January 20, 2017 (FPRC) -- Tent World has said that its recently released Mars Beach Tent is now available to its users. The Mars Tent is a sizeable tent that can be used at the beach, in the garden, or at any other outdoor location. It's part of a series of top-quality outdoor tents that are named after planets in the solar system depending on their size and unique properties.

Tent World is a distinct brand that's owned by Thermalabs, one of the leading producers of cosmetics products in the market today. The mandate of Tent World is to oversee the production, marketing, and distribution of all beach and sports tents by Thermalabs. The brand has its own offices, brand manager, and a team of employees in New York City. In addition to Tent World, Thermalabs also owns two other sub-brands namely Supremasea (produces skincare products based on Dead Sea mineral salts) and Organic Healthcare (manufactures all-natural healthcare products).

Each of the tents under the Tent World brand is named after a solar system planet. The first-ever tent was called mercury. It featured a protective coating that shielded occupants from the sun's harmful radiation, as well as extra side bags that could be filled with sand for more support. The smallest tent in the lineup is Pluto (since Pluto is also the smallest planet in the solar system), while the largest is named 'The Sun'. Since Pluto tents are so small, they have been designed for the needs of small children and toddlers. They are available in a variety of colors so that parents can pick a color that their child love, and also come with a coloring book to keep kids occupied while inside.

According to Tent World brand manager Ann Spencer, the Mars beach tent is built with high-quality polyester material that lasts long and gives maximum value for money. The tent has an instant pop-up mechanism that makes it easier to set up or fold down after use. Although primarily designed for use at the beach, Mars can also come in handy at camping sites, fishing locations, public parks, private gardens and any other outdoor locations. It ships with a travel-ready compact carry bag.

"Our new Mars beach tent is finally available in the market. Tent World customers can now get this product at a subsidized launch price on our website, as well as on Amazon.com. Mars is a significantly large tent that shelters you in any outdoor location, whether at the beach, in the garden or in the park. It's built from high-grade polyester that lasts long and gives you top value for money. It's one quality tent that will not disappoint..." said Ms. Spencer.

Contact Information

For more information contact Ann Rodgers of Thermalabs (<http://www.thermalabs.com/home>)

Keywords

The Mars

Mars beach tent

The Sun

You can read this press release online here