

Win a £3,720 limited-edition Omega Seamaster Diver 300M with Luxe Watches

Luxe Watches is celebrating the return of Bond in 2019 by launching a competition to win a limited edition £3,720 Omega Seamaster watch.

October 24, 2017 (FPRC) --

To celebrate the imminent return of James Bond in 2019, Luxe Watches are hosting a competition that will give one lucky winner the chance to receive a limited-edition Omega Seamaster Diver 300M Commander's Watch.

This limited-edition watch was originally produced to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the legendary Bond film, You Only Live Twice.

Gadgets are of course a key part of the Bond mystery, which is why the Seamaster Diver 300M Commander's Watch attracted so much attention.

The watch reflects all things British, and is designed as a stylish salute to the Royal Navy and inspired by the legendary superspy Bond.

It has a distinctive red, white and blue colour scheme, with a chunky dial and traditional strap that is inspired by Bond's rank and regalia. The case is made from stainless steel with a polished, white ceramic dial.

The finer details bring the watch to life, such as the striking 007 motif in brilliant red that acts as a counterpoint to the second hand, and a Liquidmetal diving scale to demonstrate the 300M it can be used in. The intricate design of the watch showcases the stylish Omega Calibre 2507 mechanism. The Commander's Watch logo is inscribed in capitals, along with the number of the edition, on the clear stainless-steel back rim.

Just 7,007 watches were produced to mark this celebratory release, retailing at £3,720 each.

The 25th instalment of James Bond is set to return in November 2019, with the plot and its key characters being kept tightly under wraps. The good news for Bond fans, however, is that according to sources, shooting for the next film is due to start early 2018.

Daniel Craig has confirmed that he will be filling the role of Bond again. If he completes the film, he will be the longest running Bond since Sean Connery. Neal Purvis and Robert Wade, who first got involved with the franchise in The World is Not Enough in 1999, are working on the new script. The director is yet to be announced, but the bookies' favourite is Christopher Nolan, who directed the hugely successful Dunkirk this year.

Those feeling nostalgic for the next Bond film are encouraged to enter Luxe Watches' Christmas giveaway to bag themselves a piece of Bond history. The competition runs from October 15th to December 15th, and the winner will be announced the following week.

To be in with a chance of winning a limited-edition Omega Seamaster Diver 300M with Luxe Watches, hopefuls must fill out the company's quick entry form.

#END#

Boilerplate:

Luxe Watches is a leading independent luxury watch retailer in the UK. The company stocks the finest luxury watch brands, including Audemars Piguet, Cartier, Omega and Patek Philippe. Luxe specialises in sourcing new and used quality timepieces online and at their boutique store in Essex. Luxe Watches are proud to supply the most luxurious watches for both men and women.

Press Details:

Contact: Rachel Young

Website: <https://www.luxewatches.co.uk/>

Telephone: 0203 397 1596

Email: info@luxewatches.co.uk

Contact Information

For more information contact Rachel Young of Luxe Watches (<http://https://www.luxewatches.co.uk/>)
0203 397 1596

Keywords

Luxe Watches

quick entry form

You can read this press release online here