

Kew Painters Opens For Business

After 6 months of preparation and hard work behind the scenes Kew Painters is finally open for business!

November 9, 2019 (FPRC) -- It's been a long 6 months of hard work, government red tape and a significant financial investment but Kew Painters owner Joseph (Joe) Mack is finally pleased to announce that Kew Painters is open for business!

Kew Painters came about as Joe has worked for other painting companies over his career and noticed a real lack of professionalism with many, from poor customer service, poor safety practices, and sometime deceptive and unfair business practices. Enough was enough so he quit his last job early in 2019 and has been forming his own company, Kew Painters ever since. Kew Painters has been founded on the business principles of fairness, customer service, quality of work, and safety at all times.

Learning how to setup a business from scratch is no easy task and Joe had a lot of learning and trial and error to go through. Setting up a business legally, speaking to accountants and lawyers, organising payment systems and bank accounts with the bank, finding and hiring a marketing company to help drum up business was all a struggle, but it has all paid off in the end as his company is ready to officially start trading.

To celebrate this milestone Kew Painters is offering a 10% off every painting quote until the end of 2019.

About Kew Painters: We are a professional house and business painting service servicing Kew and the inner eastern suburbs of Melbourne, Australia. If you'd like to you can contact Joe here.
