

TLX Group Established To Deliver Industry-Leading Courier Services

New Courier Company Founded To Provide Rapid, Safe And Outstanding Service

July 26, 2020 (FPRC) -- A team of experienced courier industry veterans have set up their new courier business, TLX Group, to lead the way in providing companies with a rapid, reliable, and affordable delivery service.

By its very nature, the courier industry is highly competitive, but in recent months, this has been more the case than ever, due to the boom in both businesses and individuals purchasing products and services online, as lockdown conditions meant many physical retailers had closed their doors.

In this environment, where there is little margin for error, customers have come to expect faster, more secure, and better value deliveries than ever before. For courier companies, not meeting these expectations could result in a loss of consumer confidence, a drop in sales, and a struggling business.

TLX Group was founded to lead by example and provide everything a top-quality courier company needs to bring to the contemporary marketplace. Determined to show that courier services can be fast, comprehensive, and reliable, the TLX team have put together an impressive roster of vehicles, an experienced and highly-trained team, as well as a comprehensive range of services.

These include two-man deliveries, next day courier service, fragile delivery coverage, and even same day deliveries for when the customer has no time to lose. They also offer more specialised services, such as carrying out exhibition moves (including help with setting up the venue), specialist moving of fragile and highly valuable items, and chilled or frozen deliveries for goods which need to be kept cool during transit.

As the courier industry has been under additional pressure in recent years to make deliveries more transparent and accessible, TLX Group have risen to the challenge by ensuring that all their vehicles are fitted with the very latest in satellite tracking technology.

This means that a driver and a delivery are always contactable, while ensuring it is easy to check the delivery's progress, and keep up to date with its expected delivery time.

TLX Group not only provides excellent vehicles and a wide selection of services, the company also emphasises outstanding customer service. Recognising the cross-industry shift towards more personalised and communicative service, TLX Group have made their support team available 24/7. This is almost unrivalled in the courier industry, and was introduced to provide customers with as much peace of mind as possible.

With transparent pricing, simple payment options, superior delivery tracking, 24 hour support - 7 days a week, and a comprehensive range of services, TLX Group is a current industry-leader in the challenging world of courier services.
